SPECIAL EVENTS SCHEDULED FOR G-W HOMECOMING

EUTING TO SPEAK AT LUNCHEON

George Euting, Coordinator of Coordinating Program Planning for the education division of the Southern Baptist Convention's Sunday School Board, will be featured speaker at the Founders' Day Luncheon Saturday, Oct. 25. He is the former vice president of Bluefield College in Virginia. Before this, he was secretary of the SBC Brotherhood Department. The author of many public books, he is well known to Tar Heel pastors and educators as a speaker who "tells it like it is."

DAVID LINDSAY BUILDING

Dedication of the David Lindsay Classroom Building will highlight a full weekend of activities scheduled for Gardner-Webb Homecoming, 1969. Mr. David Lindsay, for whom the building is named, and his wife, Winifred Herbert Lindsay, gave Gardner-Webb a gift which could become the college's largest. Estimates have been set at $748,000.

The Lindsays, Tar Heel natives known for their civic, church and educational philanthropies, formerly maintained a dairy goat farm in Rutherfordton. Close friends of a fellow dairy goat farmer, the late renowned poet Carl Sandburg, they were led to make the gift through an interest in higher education.

The classroom building which will bear the Lindsay name was a modern educational plant of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church before the college purchased these church facilities adjacent to the campus recently.

Other homecoming events include an open house, alumni barbecue, basketball scrimmage, and game between G-W's Bulldogs and Blue Field State.

Cloninger, Noggle To Be Guests

Tony Cloninger, standout pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds, will be the featured speaker at the 1969 Gardner-Webb Homecoming barbecue. Charlie Noggle, native of Shelby and a former quarterback at N. C. State, will be a special guest.

CLONINGER

Playing in an era of ACC quarterback talent, Noggle was famed for his strong running game. He was called a "quarterback who runs like a fullback." Noggle excelled in total yardage running and passing as opposed to today who throw most of the time for most of their records.

L. R. Harrill Is Among G-W Investors

We deeply regret that last month's issue of The Web omitted the name of L. R. (Big Toby) Harrill, '14, of Raleigh, from the list of Annual Fund givers in the section entitled "Some Investors in A Greater Gardner-Webb."

Mr. Harrill is indeed a staunch and generous supporter of the college as well as one of its most distinguished alumni. Now retired, he served as head of G-W week in North Carolina from 1926 until 1933. Under his leadership, the G-W endowment grew from 20,000 to 100,000, largest unit membership in the nation. Annually, he presents a Citizenship Award to one of G-W's outstanding students. He himself has won numerous awards and citations, including Gardner-Webb's cherished "Alumnus of the Year" award for 1966.

Committees At Work

The events at Homecoming and Founders Day don't just happen. They are the result of the work of many people. The Alumni and Founders Day Committees of the faculty and the division of the Alumni Association are the real "work horses" of the planning of the events that will occur during this special and significant week. Behind-the-scenes planning and work begins very early in the school year with these committee meeting separately and together along with various members of the administration. Each year seems to "eat de" the year before.

VANOCUR ADDRESSES STUDENTS

VANOCUR

NEC's noted newsmen and commentator Sander Vanocur addressed students and members of the college community Sept. 6 as a part of Gardner-Webb's annual Distinguished Artist Series. His provocative comments on national and international topics raised many issues for discussion and provided an enlightened look at social problems in America today. Students responded enthusiastically to his talk, applauding him generously at its conclusion.

From The Editor . . .

It has been just a few weeks since I arrived at Gardner-Webb College, but already I am beginning to see the importance of our Alumni Association. With each passing day it becomes more apparent to me that the growth of Gardner-Webb depends upon you, the Alumni, who have shared in the life of the college, and who now stand ready to pledge your support to her confessed growth. The move to four-year college status is a real challenge. The task is great, but there is no doubt that the Alumni of Gardner-Webb College will lend their best support to insure that our college continues to help young men and women gain a quality education within a Christian atmosphere. I am a graduate of Gardner-Webb, not just because I am one of her graduates, but because I found as her campus a group of faculty and staff who were personally concerned about my future . . . concerned enough to do something about it by holding my feet to the fire and insisting that I live up to the high standard of excellence that they had helped to establish. I feel a strong sense of obligation to Gardner-Webb. I hope you will join with me in letting students and parents throughout our nation know that Gardner-Webb is a college that cares about the future of our young people . . . that she is a college with character.

RANDY ELROD

NEW AUTOS FOR COLLEGE—Gardner-Webb's new automobiles are presented to Randy Elrod, director of alumni activities, left, by Wade Tysner, manager of Shelby's Young Motor Sales, center, and Ed Young, owner and manager of Young Buick Co. The vehicles, to be used in the college's new driver education course, are a 1969 Mercury Montego MX and a 1969 Buick Skylark.

Mobile Homes Temporarily Solve Campus Housing Shortage

Gardner-Webb has installed 16 mobile homes behind Suttle Tennis Courts as a temporary solution to the housing problem for men students. Allen Withrow of Arrowood Mobile Homes in Charlotte drew the basic design of the 32 by 65-foot units according to college requirements. Each mobile unit has four rooms with individual entrances. Each has individual heat controls and will be air conditioned. A survey of students living in them indicates they offer advantages of less noise and greater privacy.

Alumnus Harry Walker In New Hospital Post

Gardner-Webb alumnus Harry S. Walker has been named to direct a new department of pastoral care at Beckley Appalachian Regional Hospital in Beckley, W. Va. The hospital will be the first in this state to offer clinical pastoral education.

Pastoral care is a new concept in treating human ills, involving psychological, sociological, psychological, and spiritual factors in a sick person's life as well as the purely physical. An increasing number of hospitals are adding chaplains to their staffs.

The West Virginia hospital is planning to develop a school for ministerial and theological students supervised by Chaplain Walker. His primary responsibilities will be assisting in the care of the sick and developing a program of clinical pastoral education for ministers.

Chaplain Walker, 35, is a native of Lenoire, N. C. He and his wife both attended Gardner-Webb. He was graduated from Wake Forest University in 1962 and from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in 1965. He served as pastor of several N. C. churches before enrolling for graduate study in the School of Pastoral Care of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, a pioneer teaching institution in the field, under the direction of Dr. Richard K. Young. As a graduate student, his duties at Baptist Hospital included the hospital chaplaincy, supervision and teaching of CPCE students and pastoral counseling.

He and Mrs. Walker have two daughters and a son.

Dr. Poston Will Lead Tour Groups

Dr. E. Eugene Poston, Gardner-Webb College president, will host two separate foreign tours late this year in mid-1970.

Dr. Poston will lead a pilgrimage to the Bible Lands, leaving Dec. 26 this year, which will include Jerusalem, Mount of Olives, Gethsemane, the Jordan River, Samaria, Galilee, Nazareth, Bethlehem and Jericho.

Arrangements will be made by World Tours International.

Dr. Poston and his son, Steve, will co-lead the second tour, an around-the-world tour, June 18 - July 18, 1970. This tour will include Hawaii, England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Iceland, Jerusalem, India, Thailand, Hong Kong, and Japan.

The second tour is being sponsored by Baptist Travel Ahead of Dallas, Texas.

All persons interested in either tour should contact Dr. E. Eugene Poston, Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina 28017, Phone: (704) 434-2211.

Vaughn, Hooper Resign

Alex H. Vaughn, director of promotion at Gardner-Webb for the past five years, and Ron Hooper, assistant basketball coach for three years, have resigned to accept business positions.

Vaughn has joined Liberty Corporation of Greenville, S. C., a holding company, in its communications department. Hooper will enter the direct sales field in Kingsport, Tenn.

- Seven students are serving as Intern Pastors in nearby churches. This offers them an opportunity to work with the pastor in an "on the job" training capacity. The pastor involved with this program have expressed their appreciation both for the privilege of helping these students and for the help they are receiving from the interns.
- Total enrollment at Gardner-Webb College is 1480. Freshmen: 700, Sophomores: 400, Juniors: 300, Special students: 60. This is the greatest number of students ever enrolled at GW.
- Trinity Baptist Church of Palatka, Florida, has invited a group of students from GWC to lead in revival services this fall.
- The BSU slave market is scheduled for Oct. 11.
- The BSU will sponsor a picnic supper for the Bulldog Club Oct. 15.
- FOCUS (Fellowship of Christian United in Service) will journey to Fork Baptist Church in Mocksville Oct. 18, and
- On Sept. 14 the FOCUS group attended services at Providence Baptist Church in Hickory, N. C.
- On Oct. 2, a campus-wide picnic was held for all students and faculty.
- Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Poston returned from a two-week tour of Hawaii in August. While in Hawaii they visited the parents of Veronika Maronick. Dr. Poston reported that he has never met any people friendlier than the Hawaiians.
- A reception for all faculty, administrators, and staff members, and their wives or husbands was held at the President's Home, Riverbend Acres, Saturday, Sept. 27.
- Revival week, Sept. 22-26. Jack Gantt, alumnus '60, led the singing. Dr. Randall Lolley, pastor of First Baptist Church of Winston-Salem, was the revival preacher. We appreciate what Dr. Lolley had to say so we, and also, we appreciate the wisdom of the Rev. FOCUSman for scheduling Dr. Lolley as our speaker.
- The Classics IV were on campus for a visit Oct. 18.
